Planting in the Willow Class

This week, we have been learning about germination. Using chromebooks, we researched the life cycle of a plant. In English, we wrote an explanation piece explaining the process. We wrote about the dormant seed, germination and finally about sprouting. We drew diagrams to improve our explanation. In Science, we planted some seeds. We planted courgette, [...]

Update from Rowan Class

Rowan class have been busy this week in the drafting process for their work on procedural writing. The class have planned, written out, self-corrected, taken on board feedback, shared with their peers and have begun typing out their procedures. Well done to the class on all their hard work and including fantastic bossy verbs and adjectives. I [...]
